FACTORY REGULATION

There is a widely prevalent belief that removal of factories to small towns will do away with the evils of the factory system.

But the revelations in the Missourian show that this is not so. Though location in a small town enables the workers to have separate, spacious dwellings, it does not guarantee sanitary conditions in the factory itself. These must be assured through inspection by some outside force, in the small town as well as in the city.

SWIMMING TIME

"It's swimming time, fellows, and the water's warm, 'cause Jerry Martin's been in and he said so."

Gee, to be a kid again—to throw your clothes on the bank, hold your nose and splash into the water. Wouldn't it be fun? Maybe your clothes would be in knots when you got out, and you'd be late for supper, and you couldn't get upstairs to comb your hair and mother'd see it was wet and know you'd been swimming. But what would that matter?

Next day you could tell the bunch about it and how cold the water was and that the flickin' didn't hurt much, anyway.

"It's swimming time, fellows, and the water's warm 'cause Jerry Martin's been in and he said so."

OUR RURAL POPULATION

The population of rural communities in Missouri decreases steadily at the rate of about 3.5 per cent, while the population of cities is increasing in varying percentages.

The land surface of the state is approximately 43,985,280 acres, 78.6 per cent of which is improved, 55.9 per cent of this being in farms. At the last census the acreage of farm land had made a slight increase.

Modern industrial and agricultural conditions have more to do with the decrease of rural population than the lure of the city or the loneliness of farm life.

Fifty intelligent American farmers with modern machinery can do the work of 500 European peasants working without it. This means that the reaper, the mower, the gang plow are replacing 450 out of every 500 men who used to lead a rural life and that these men must find employment elsewhere. Naturally they go to the manufacturing cities—whose products have robbed them of their employment. St. Louis and Kansas City have increased in the last ten years far more in proportion than the other urban communities. St. Louis has increased three times as rapidly as the state as a whole.

Labor saving machines are aided and abetted by scientific and capitalistic agriculture. It isn't the general cussedness of the boys that makes them want to leave the farm, any more than it is the loss of femininity in women that causes them to seek employment outside of the home. It is changing economic conditions.

CADET OFFICERS FORM CLUB

M. U. Students to Lease Military Academy Building and Grounds.

The buildings and grounds of the University Military Academy on Stewart road will be the home of forty officers and non-commissioned officers of the University Cadet Corps next year. An organization has been affected and officers named. Major R. S. Ramey was made president; Captain T. M. Cornell, commissary, and Corporal Wilbur F. Marling, secretary-treasurer.

It was suggested that the club be named "The Barracks," to carry out the military idea.

MISSOURI HORSE BUYER IN WEST
Kansas Citian Gives Big Orders in Washington and Oregon.

SPOKANE, Wash., June 2.—To purchase thousands of horses for the use of Great Britain in the European war, D. O. Leith of Kansas City, Mo., arrived in Spokane this week and will spend the summer here.

The firm which he represents bought 21,000 horses and 1,000 mules in Washington and Oregon alone last year and probably about 198,000 horses and 90,000 mules from all parts of the United States. Loaded 20 to a car the horses from Washington and Oregon occupied more than 1,000 cars.

"We expect to obtain a large number this year," says Mr. Leith. "Local purchases will be made at the Spokane Union Stock Yards. Our representatives will also make inspections in British Columbia and various places in the Inland Empire."

Glenwood Spurling With Quartet.
Glenwood Spurling has returned to the Lyceum Arts Conservatory of Music at Chicago after a two weeks' visit to his parents in Columbia. Mr. Spurling, who is a former student in the University, last summer was a member of the Warwick Male Quartet, which toured the New England states under the management of Elias Day. This summer the quartet will be on the twelve weeks' circuit of the White-Meyers Chautauqua System. The season will open in South Dakota and close in Missouri September 1.

East Campus Bridge Breaks Down.

Two weeks ago a little rustic bridge of stone and concrete was built across the narrow end of the pond east of the Biology Building. Heavy rains fell before the cement had thoroughly set, which resulted in the bridge being crumbly and unsafe. A few days ago the bridge collapsed under the weight of several children. Except for the sudden wetting, no harm resulted. The bridge is to be reconstructed soon in a more substantial manner.
